PROPOSAL CONCRETE THE DAY GERMAN ELECTIONS

But Molotov Dubiously

Geneva, Nov. 4.

For the first time since the beginning of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference at Geneva, it was the West today which took the offensive, together with the West German Federal Government.

A document prepared by the Western experts, with the co-operation of West German experts, proposed elections throughout Germany in September, 1956.

The Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr Molotov, called for "practical measures which could be applied immediately as a contribution to the settlement of the German problem," in this afternoon's session.

He did not have long to wait - at the end of today's session, American Secretary of State John Foster Dulles presented - in the name of the Western powers — the proposal on "the reunification of Germany by means of free elections."

Mr Moiotov promised to study! The West is obviously trying! There he will undoubtedly not conform to the directives of the heads of governments, as it

"Strategic Air Command" June Allyson is back The New what apparently naturally, i.e., being understanding, helpful saccharine wife.

We see the diminutive little dear striding along purposefully, hands in pockets, eyes erinkling, dutifully bringing up a family, alternately bullying and coxing husband James Stewart.

This kind of thing may be eminently praiseworthy in real life, but oh, how tired I'm getting of it on the screen. James Stewart has diligently fulfilled his flying duties in the 1939-1945 war, we gather at the beginning of the film, and has returned to his peace-time job of playing baseball. And before anybody starts to marvel at this sterling-qualified hero (as he later turns out to be, of course) reverting to such an apparently childish occupation, may I say that in America, baseball is regarded with much, If not more reverence than is ericket in England.

Therefore, although he is no lenger in the firing line, he is, so to speak, still upholding the Great Traditions of his country. Comes along his brass-hatted commanding officer-straight to the match, naturally—and proreeds to drop hints all over the place that this blue-eyed boy of the Air Force would be of vital importance to something he refers to as SAC.

The Kitten Shows Her Claws

This word would have had an extremely anti-climactical ring had it not been breathed with such obvious dedication and devotion. It transpires that SAC is not just a slang term for a desk job in the American Air Force, but Strategic Air Command. And may I say that every time these words are used in the picture, so strong is the auto-suggestion that one feels a certain lese-majeste in not rising swiftly to one's feet and bowing

The kittenish June Allyson shows her claws a bit at this, and to be truthful, our hero, James Stewart doesn't seem to be overjoyed at the prospect of being hauled back into uniform. Unlike Alan Ladd in "The cept that one deals with fighters and the other bombors). James Stewart isn't merely a modelbuilding, overgrown schoolboy with a burning ambition to fly, and his sober realisation of the potentialities of these immense bombers brings the mental level a little higher than it might otherwise have been.

This thunderstorm "cell" of rising warmth, if conditions are just right, gains power as it lifts. The air expands and cools. It begins wringing out its load of water vapour. Droplets form and grow heavier. The cloud boils higher and darker. "cumulus gone wild" becomes a thunderhead.

Mr and Mrs Albert Ford live in a house shaped like a pumpkin.

Some of the ceilings are of Navy surplus rope. And there are fig trees growing inside.

Mr Ford is a gas company executive. His wife, Ruth Van Sickle Ford, is director of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and a water colour painter.

Their architect was Bruce Goff, who feels that most houses are "boxes with little holes." Mr Goff profers circular houses. He says the circle is an "informal, gathering-around, triendly form."

Three Levels

Mr Gost used large girders, painted bright red, as the structural members of the "pumpkin." Some of these are exposed, and curve down into the living area near the front

Half-forgotten Heroes (No. 2) By Dudley Pope

N the spring of 1944 the tide of World War II had turned, but some of the bitterest fighting yet to come. The Allies, battling to the outskirts of Rome, had toppled Mussolini's vicious empire; the Germans were retreating through the mud, blood and snow of Russia, and Tito's Partisans were fighting desperately in Yugoslavia.

And Adolf Hitler was extremely angry. Here was this "bandit" Tito pinning down between 15 and 20 German divisions-men and armour the Fuehrer badly wanted to plug the gaps on his sprawling Eastern front.

So he personally gave the order that Tito was to be liquidated.

Himmler, Heinrich Gestapo boss, personally passed on the order to Colonel-General Rendulic, commanding the 2nd Army. With it went, a second order-for yet another all-out abortive.

NAZI PLANS

So Rendulic began to plan Operation "Rosselsprung" moved over the countryside. Operation "Rosselsprung" (the knight's move in chess), in which Tito and his staff were to be trapped and killed or captured; and Operation "Thunderbolt," the seventh offensive against the Partisans.

Even Himmler had no illusions: "He is our enemy, but I wish we had a dozen Titos in Germany, men who were leaders and had such great resolution and good nerves that Evening dresses contrive to be gay without being jazzy, some in stiff duchess satin, others in pastel lace.

The Belgian designers also experiment with novelty materaals-jacquard printed cotton, glazed jersey, satin-striped wool, and printed satin. MALTED FOOD for Underweight children. All types of milk modification. Loss of weight.

Malnutrition.

Brestol is a blend of specially chosen fats emulsified with malt extract and concentrated orange juice. One of the fats present is codliver oil, and the combination is adjusted so that the chemical characteristics of the mixed fats are almost identical with those of the fat of breast milk.

Excess of fat may produce either constipation or diarrhoea and is a frequent source of vomiting in infancy. In such cases it is necessary to reduce the fat intake temporarily; by the use of Half Cream Cow & Gate Milk Food (blue tin) and the gradual introduction of BRESTOL, tolerance to fat may be restored until the optimum amount can be taken.

A very valuable use of BRESTOL is in cases of underweight infants who frequently respond in a highly satisfactory monner. This applies, for example, to cases of marasmus after the causative condition has been cleared up, and also to wasting conditions in older children.

WINTER PROGRAMMES

Tonight the clocks go back one hour, and winter time begins officially. Radio Hongkong has planned a new winter schedule which includes many new programmes designed to appeal to listeners of varying tastes.

Several of these will be introduced during the coming week. For those who enjoy a visit to the cinema, "Going to the Pictures" can be heard on Wednesday's at 7.15. In this programme a panel of three will give you their impressions of what's on at the cinema in that particular week.

Children's programmes have been somewhat extended, and beginning this week, in addition to the usual Children's programme on Mondays and Fridays, there will be a programme called "Adventures in Music" on Tuesdays at 6,30, designed especially for students of music -though it is hoped that the programme will appeal to music Station. lovers of all ages.

at eight On Thursdays minutes past six, there will be drumatisations of A. A. Milne's delightful story "The House At Pooh Comer", and then on Sundays, just after six, beginning temorrow, Lewis Carroll's "Alice Through the Looking Glass" in serial form, produced by the BBC.

"BEDSIDE BOOK'

For those who like readings of novels or short stories, there will be "Bedside Book" at 10.45 p.m. from Monday to Friday, the find book is to be "Uncle Stlas" by Sheridan Le Fanu, and the ephodes are to be read by Cynthia Nixon.

On Saturday oversings at 10,30, will be "Saturday Short Story," starting next Saturday the 12th, with "Dream Girl", by Alex Borrie, to be read by the author.

For a number of years, Radio don't get any higher; The golden Hongkong's Sunday Concert has vanity; Tibby Dunbar; Killigrew's begun at 9 p.m., but to allow for, sotree (arr. Ives). more leisurely listening, the time has now been aftered to 9.30 p.m.

On Monday evenings at 7.30, a new series of programmes called "Two's Company" will be on the air. Each week RIIK will be inviting a Hongkong married couple to come to the studio and talk about themselves to Urada Bulmer; how they first met and married; their hobbles and experiences, and they will be Rodio Vila Verde). invited to select a record to revive some especially pleasant memory. The first couple to subject themselves to this friendly inquisition are an Army-Staff-Sergeant and his wife, and they can be heard in "Two's Company" on Monday at

"The Naturalist"—a BBC 'series cially produced for overseas, insed on a series long familiar to listeners in Britain. The speakers are always people of authority, and their revelations about the fascinating and occasionally mysterious as-pects of wild life on land, in the sea and in the air have gained a steadily increasing audience. The first programme in the series be heard on Tuesday at 7.45.

News, relayed from the BBC, will be broadcast at 7 p.m.

SCHOOLBOYS IN SOCCER

The whole vexing question of schoolboys playing in football organised by the Hongkong Football Association is being debated extensively and in some cases heatedly in many quarters at the present time.

It is no intention of mine to enter into any argument on the pros and cons of the current issue in which Kitchee are involved, because that, as I see it, is a case concerning only an alleged breach of one of the duly agreed rules which govern the conduct of all clubs playing under the jurisdiction of the Association.

EARLY STARDOM

The chance to reach early stardom must always be an attractive goal: the opportunity to rub shoulders with the great pames of the game in the Colony is surely one that few boys could resist. The age of here worship is not past. In the face of such a temptation young boys-yes and their parents-could well make decisions and sacrifices that are not in their best interest. In is played there is a long trial illusioned hopefuls.

Eloquent wooing and empty -or at least hollow-promises i of rosy futures have often sent partially educated feet along uncertain paths. The main job of team officials is to build a successful team; and when things go wrong it is easy to forget that today's unsuccessful youngster was yesterday's bright and shining schoolboy prospect

To the club this change of circumstances is little more than the HKFA the official colours of a temporary disappointment, Sing Tao are Yellow and Black, and often means only that the and while their present all-black warch for a more successful re- shirts and shorts with a narrow placement is pushed ahead with yellow ring at the neck of the greater vigour than before,

Another far reaching point is that the young schooolboy footballer, who suddenly finds himself actively engaged in highly competitive football, tends to let the game assume undue importance in his everyday affairs and he allows other interests his s'udies, for example to suffer. Playing days, even in Colony where players seem go on longer than in many other places, are only a short part of p lifetime, and apart from a small fortunate minority, they provide no lasting security.

OFFICIAL COLOURS

The question of official colours is one which I have heard raised several times in recent discussion concerning both Senior and Junior football. Once a club has registered its colours they should surely not be varied in use except in cases where they clash with those of an opposing side and the rules of the Association must make provision for the action to be taken in such cases.

There was certainly no clash of colours in the games involving Sing Too, for the Police play in blue and KMB in red. and both if these are easily distimerulshable from the familiar vellow and black stripes of the

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5

DORN today, you are likely to achieve success at a fairly early D age. Your ideals are high. You have great concentration. Your tastes are cultural and intellectual and you will be most content if you select a career in the arts or professions. You have original ideas and like to be the leader rather than a follower. You must use your ingenuity to be happy.

Although you are not mainly interested in money-making, it is likely that you will attract business success. You are highly analytical and will only select those areas for work in which you foresee success. Consequently, your margin of error is very small and your success percentage high.

Although stendinst to an ideal you have a rather roving. romantic nature. You are attracted by so many—that you may find it difficult to make up your mind and settle down with just one! However, once you have made your decision, it is for life. Among those born on this date are: Will Durant, author; Nicholas Longworth, statesman; Roy Rogers, Jesse Ralph, Joel McCrne and Percy Marmont, actors; Ernest Noble, noted surgeon; Will Hayes, film executive.

Please Remember

ONDON children have been busy for weeks levying subsidies for bonfire night, for nowadays there is hardly any close-season in the campaign to collect "pennies for the guy."

It is only the less-sophisticated children who bother to produce a guy for people to subscribe to, only those with a low IQ who go to the trouble of blacking their faces in support of their plea for funds.

The hearmy, modern child just demands his money in the coldly certain tones of income tax collector, and, like the tax-man, offers only grudging acknowledgment in return for what he gota,

The gist of the proposals was understood to be a call for the withdrawal of Egyptian troops and "unauthorised" Israel persomel from the approximately El Auja do-90-square male militarised zone.

Israel convends that it has only police forces to protect farmers in the zone, important because of its road communications and its water facilities for the Smal Desert area.

A British spokesman said the decision on whether to summon the Security Council did not rest upon the Egyptian and Israeli replies to Mr Hannaarskjoid's proposals. Weekend consultations were expected among the Big Three on the tiuderbox

Security Systems Could Disappear --Pearson

New Delhi, Nov. 4.

Mr Lester Pearson, Canadian External Affairs Minister, said here today that the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation could disappear if the fear of war were removed and if the United Nations could carry out the security functions envisaged in its Charter.

"Then - but only then - could NATO or any other defensive collective security system . . . disappear," he told a meeting of the India Council of World Affairs.

"When NATO was formed we poor world has known since had a good reason to fear 1914."—Reuter. aggression and a policy by which ar aggressor could in Europe attack and defeat his disunited victims one by one," he said.
